Hurley Makes Charges

Declares Acheson Took Leading Part In Defeating U. S. Policy in Iran

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley charged today in a turbulent appearance before the Senate Foreign Relations committee that the present under secretary of state, Dean Acheson, and other State Department career men had achieved the defeat of American foreign policy in Iran.

Acheson "took a leading part" in bringing this about, Hurley declared, following up his earlier assertion that the undersecretary had both "destroyed" and "defeated" administration policy in the little nation that was the scene of the Tehran conference.

"I don't know how many career men assisted him (Acheson) in defeat of the policy, but I do know it was defeated," the former ambassador to China said.

Hurley did not elaborate. He is testifying regarding the reasons he resigned his post at Chungking.

The soldier-diplomat brushed frequently with Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) and other committee members at a stormy session. He made these charges against Acheson and other State Department career men after Senator Bridges (R-N.H.) had asked him to elaborate his earlier testimony naming Acheson. Acheson formerly was assistant secretary of state.

Frankly Speaking

"Let me be frank," Hurley said. "In the defeat of the foreign policy of President Roosevelt and former Secretary of State Stettinius, I believe Mr. Dean Acheson took a leading part."

Hurley said documents he has asked the State Department to produce could substantiate this. He added that until they have been made available as yet, "I feel such a keen interest in the foreign policy of my nation, I would like to forego discussing the document."

Hurley said, however, that he had the document and would submit it if the committee wanted him to. The committee did not immediately request them.

Just before the committee recessed until tomorrow, when Secretary of State Byrnes will be heard, Hurley read a written statement declaring that the defeat of American policies is "an inside job."

An Inside Job

"My one endeavor," he said, "is to bring to the attention of the American people the fact that the announced American policy is being defeated and has been defeated all over the world, not alone in China."

"The fact is, Mr. Chairman, that the defeat of the principles of the Atlantic Charter, the defeat of the principles of the Iran declaration, the use of America's power to uphold predatory ideologies contrary to the announced policies of the government is an inside job."

"This is true whether the propaganda comes from career men or others."

Hurley's initial assertion that Acheson had "destroyed" and "defeated" the country's policy in Iran developed in a stormy exchange with Connally.

He and Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) shouted back and forth at each other before the testimony went into the record.

Victory Bond Goal Is in Sight

The Pettis County Victory Bond Goal is in sight. Our county can finish by December 8 with its "E" bond quota, giving us the honor of being one of the first large counties to go over the top. If you have not purchased your bond please do so before Saturday.

The bond committee requests all the workers to report before Saturday noon.

Let's make this a grand finish!

Hurley Talks

Patrick J. Hurley, recently resigned ambassador to China, shields his eyes from glare of photographers' flashes as he tells senate foreign relations committee that he would have remained as ambassador to China if Secretary of State Byrnes had publicly clarified American foreign policy as he has since in a letter to Representative Jack Anderson. ## Searching for Six Torpedo Naval Planes

Missing Bombers Were Due Back at Base Wednesday

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., Dec. 6.—(AP)—A sixth airplane was reported overdue this morning by the navy as hundreds of air and surface craft, including the small aircraft carrier Solomons, scoured the Atlantic coast from Mayport to south of Miami in search of five navy torpedo bombing planes missing from Fort Lauderdale since late yesterday.

The Sixth plane reported missing was a PB-M (Mariner) which left the Banana River air station last night to search for the bombers.

Each of the five bombers is believed to carry a pilot and a radio-gunner. Officials of the navy base here declined to say how many men were with the crafts.

Saw Explosion

Although no official theory was made public, it was learned the navy had received a report from the steamer Gaines Mills that members of the crew last night saw what they thought was an explosion. The exact position of the Gaines Mills was not given.

The missing bombers were due back at their base late yesterday. At 5:25 p. m. (EST) they reported by radio they had enough fuel for about 75 minutes of additional flying time.

The hunt is being carried on by hundreds of army, navy and coast guard planes from points all along the Florida east coast, as well as all available surface craft. Commercial vessels in the area were also asked to join the hunt.

Youth Held for Questioning Eludes Police

Jumped Out of A Window; Now He's in Jail

Keith West, 16, years old, Ossow, Michigan, is being detained by the police who are checking to ascertain if the boy might be a runaway. The youth gave the police some headaches during the first hour and half after he was picked up—he escaped police headquarters.

Police noticed the boy on Highway 50 "thumbing" a ride, and decided to question him. As they talked to him his story was a little vague and they took him to headquarters. All the formal questions, "What's your name? Where do you live? How long have you been away from home? Why did you leave? How old are you?" etc., were asked by Sergeant George Maness.

The boy was seated outside the radio room while the officers immediately notified Detroit to check the boy and see if there was a "wanted" on him. While this was going on the boy decided he wanted to go to a rest room.

Sgt. Maness unlocked the room and let the boy go inside. Then the telephone rang and Maness went to answer it. When the boy failed to come out and take his original seat, Maness started to investigate.

A window in the rest room was open. The boy had climbed out, jumped on the parked motorcycle to get to the ground and disappear. A broadcast was sent out to the police cruiser car and about twenty minutes later he was found east of Sedalia "thumbing" again.

When returned he told the officers he gave the wrong address, so that if he got a chance to "beat it" that he would take that much longer to find anything out and he could be on his way. The trick nearly worked, but now he is behind a "locked door", the officers are not checking Owsow, Mich., which town also might be a sudden desire for residence by the youth.

Holiday Decorations Are Going up

The contract for the erection of Christmas decorations in the business district of Sedalia has been awarded Mrs. L. R. Raines, and she has workmen on the job today.

Most of the work will be done in the day time, she stated to reporters, and asked motorists to be careful, because the men will be in the streets where they will be in danger of being hit.

Senate Needs Prayer Says Francis Smith

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 6.—(AP)—An echo of yesterday's turmoil brought chuckles to the Missouri senate today. The senate overrode three vetoes as it kicked precedent aside yesterday.

Up for consideration today was a resolution, later adopted, authorized a three-member committee to study means of cooling the stuffy chamber in hot weather.

"It would have been very appropriate if we had had a cooling system yesterday," commented Sen. Roy Miller (R) of Columbia.

"May I suggest," said Sen. Francis Smith (D) of St. Joseph, who bitterly opposed overriding the vetoes, "that on occasions such as yesterday nothing will help this body but prayer."

Three Charged With Murder in Justice Court

Mother, Son and Neighbor Sign Written Confessions

VIENNA, Mo., Dec. 6.—(AP)—Henry Westerman was buried today in the hill country where he died and his widow, his son, and a neighbor waived preliminary hearing on charges that they killed him.

Brought before Justice of the Peace T. S. McGee, Mrs. Edna Westerman, 31, her eldest son, Gene, 15, and Ben French, 43, went through the legal formality of waiving a hearing without comment.

Mrs. Westerman and her son both declined Prosecuting Attorney Hamp Rothwell's offer to attend Westerman's funeral, held this morning at the camp ground meeting house in western Maries county. Burial was in the Red cemetery there.

Both said they did not want to see Westerman's body again.

Rothwell said the trio, who signed written confessions that they plotted to kill Westerman so his wife and French could marry, would be held in jail without bond until the next term of circuit court, scheduled for the fourth Monday in January. They are charged with first degree murder.

Simply Dressed

Mrs. Westerman used no cosmetics on her dark complexion for the court appearance. She was dressed in a simple cotton print dress — "like those they make out of feed sacks," Rothwell said — brown stockings and shoes.

French and Gene, a high school freshman accused of firing the fatal shots, were dressed in overalls and work shirts. French wore a clean tan shirt and his hair was freshly combed.

Westerman was shot on his front porch early Monday morning and his son, Gene, is accused of killing him in a bizarre plot. His violent death ended a family relationship that began back in 1929 when he saw Edna Adkins' name on an egg shell in St. Louis, struck up a correspondence with her and finally married her.

Rothwell said the confessions showed Gene, supplied with a gun by French, called his father down to the front porch shortly after midnight Sunday night and shot him to death with two bullets fired from a 22 caliber rifle.

Final Bullet in Head

The first shot hit the father's breast bone and glanced away. The startled Westerman reeled back into the living room but Gene followed, his statement related and put a final bullet through his father's head.

The trio confessed, Rothwell said, that Mrs. Westerman and French had decided months ago to marry but first had to get rid of Westerman, recently returned from a wartime job as a construction worker in Kansas.

Rothwell said $1,250 of Westerman's savings were found in a buried tobacco tin on French's farm an additional $65 was found where Gene hid it on the Westerman farm.

The prosecution said Gene confessed that his first plan was to kill his father with an icepick, but that his mother and French talked him out of that idea and French proffered the rifle.

Asked Four to Do Job

That was after French, according to his confession, asked four other men to kill Westerman for him.

The four other Westernman children Pete, 13, Betty, 8, Robert, 5, and Patsy, 3, are being cared for by their maternal grandmother, Mrs. James Adkins and by sympathetic neighbors.

French is the father of eight children, six of them living at the home bordering the Westerman farm. Two of French's sons are in the service.

Nazis Never Were Near to Atomic Secret

Committee Hears They Were far Behind Allies

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—(AP)—S. A. Goudsmit, chief of an army intelligence mission to Germany, asserted today the Nazis never got close to learning the secret of the atomic bomb.

The University of Michigan physics professor testified before the senate-house atomic committee. Earlier, the group heard a vivid account of how rays given off by atomic bombs killed Japanese weeks after the blast which destroyed Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

Goudsmit, whose mission was assigned to learn German atomic progress, declared the Nazis felt their research was far ahead of any Allied effort.

But despite "preliminary press reports," Goudsmit said, "we can say the Germans did not have anything at all. They were way behind. Their scientists simply did not have the vision and Germany had abandoned the bomb project for this war."

No Race

Chairman McMahon (D-Conn) suggested that General George C. Marshall, former chief of staff, had been wrong in speaking of a race between Germany and the Allies in developing the weapon.

Goudsmit said apparently we knew as little about Germany's progress as they did about ours. He added, however, that the United States learned definitely a year ago that German progress was nil.

"So if General Marshall talked about a race it was the turtle and the hare," asked McMahon.

The witness nodded. Dr. Philip Morrison, who helped assemble the atomic bombs that fell on Hiroshima and Nagasaki, described how rays emitted after the blasts strangely affected the blood and made the victims a prey to fatal infection.

"Declining volume in production of atomic bomb materials at Oak Ridge, Tenn., caused a drop in employment (during November) in the Knoxville area and reduced its classification from one of stringency labor demand to one of balanced supply."

No figures were given for either the plant of the area.

But the report did say that a "reduction in force at the atomic bomb project near Knoxville" accounted for the principal increase in unemployment in the area.

The USES survey did not mention job conditions in the Washington state area where another huge atomic bomb project is located.

President Truman, while making on reference to the extent of production, disclosed at a recent news conference that this country still is making atomic bombs.

He said they would be used for experimental purposes and added that the bombs actually could be used for peacetime pursuits once international security had been achieved.

Force Cannot Bring Peace

The Rev. H. S. Anglin, Clinton, Methodist church district superintendent, spoke on "The Outlook for Peace," before the Sedalia Kiwanis Club, meeting in Bothwell Hotel Thursday noon.

He observed that peace will not come to the world by forceful tactics but rather by education and understanding.

The speaker was introduced by the Rev. H. U. Campbell, H. E. Lindstrom, program chairman for December, presided.

President-elect A. J. Brunswick announced there would be a meeting of directors and committee chairmen at Allgaier's restaurant Friday noon.

Guests were: Kiwanian C. J. Perkins, Kansas City; Harold Jung, Clinton with Job Harned; H. J. Cooney, Sedalia, L. D. Ham and M. A. Hinton, St. Louis with Henry Salveter.

Many Coming Home

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 6.—(AP)—A record of 75,728 servicemen and civilians passed through the Golden Gate in November returning from the Pacific war theater, Maj. Gen. Homer M. Groninger, commander of the Can Francisco port of embarkation, announced today.

October was the previous high month with 77,886 debarkees.

'Undemocratic And Dangerous' States Halsey

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Fleet Admiral William F. "Bull" Halsey told senators today that the proposed merger of armed forces "is un-American, un-democratic, and dangerous."

(His prepared statement read "damn dangerous" but the admiral skipped the "damn" as he read it.)

The colorful fighter who battled Japs to the gates of Tokyo, appeared before the senate and military affairs committee and opposed legislative proposals for a single postwar department composed of navy, army, and air force branches.

Admiral Halsey said that Russia tried a single defense department long ago and Japan and Germany "also had a navy dominated by the army x x x look where they are now."

"One might just as well ask a committee composed of a Protestant, a Catholic, and a Jew to save our national souls by recommending a national church and creed," he said.

Strikers and Corporation To Conference

Definite Signs Of Optimism Seen For First Time

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 6.—(AP)—Hopes for settlement of the General Motors strike were raised today as the corporation and the CIO United Auto Workers headed toward their first wage negotiations in the 16 days of the walk-out.

Neither side in the wage fight which has idled 213,000 workers offered a formal statement, but definite signs of optimism were seen for the first time. One report said there might be a settlement within ten days.

Today's bargaining session, called for 2 p. m. (EST), was arranged at yesterday's meeting of union and General Motors officials at Pittsburgh, attended by CIO President Philip Murray.

A citizens committee invited by the UAW-CIO to study the dispute said in its report today that the "full possibilities" of collective bargaining had not been exhausted.

The 14-member group, which perused the transcript of the GM-UAW negotiations, said that if President Truman and his advisors had had access to this record "we believe they would have been in a position to insist more firmly on the full use of the collective bargaining process before suggesting intervention by the government."

No Strings

"President Murray of the CIO said 'all points in dispute' would be considered at today's UAW-GM meeting and Walter P. Reuther, auto workers vice president, declared that GM had agreed there would be 'no strings attached this time.'"

General Motors previously had refused to negotiate other issues until what it termed "illegal picketing" had been stopped. Such a practice, the management contended, prevented some 40,000 office workers, in addition to 175,000 strikers, from entering the struck plants.

On what terms a settlement might be reached remained the big question, especially in view of the union's demand for the 30 per cent increase above present wage levels and within the present price structure.

No Guarantees

The new government policy, announced by stabilization administrator John C. Collett, permits manufacturers to seek price increases to offset wage boosts up to 33 per cent above the levels of January, 1941. It does not guarantee, however, that the OPA would grant such increases.

This figure is three per cent higher than the previous one and if added to an offer General Motors made the union before the strike was called would boost it to an average of about 13 per cent—still less than half the union demand.

Corporation officials have declined comment on President Truman's proposed appointment of a fact-finding board to study the GM strike, but both they and the union were reported anxious to reach a settlement before the board gets into operation.

Merchant's Warning

POPULAR BLUFF, Mo., Dec. 6.—(AP)—Bad check writers were sent Christmas greetings today in form of an advertisement by a local merchant. He warned "if you have given me a bad check and do not want to spend Christmas in jail, come in and take the checks up this week."

Marshall Knew Of No Commitment By F D R For U. S. To Go To War

News Briefs

TEHERAN, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Official radio reports from Tabriz tonight said 28 persons had been killed in new outbreaks in Russian-occupied Azerbaijan province.

Twenty-one gendarmes and two officers were reported slain at Sarab when rebel Democrat party members attacked troop billets, the radio said.

Six others were reported killed by the insurrectionists in the vicinity of Marand midway between Tabriz and the Soviet frontier.

Among the dead, it was said, were the local police chief and the president of the local tribunal.

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Accepting a compromise plan, the house passed and sent to the governor today a bill to set up a new three-member state tax commission as authorized in the 1945 constitution.

Originally the house proposed a five-member agency but in its final form the commission bill calls for three members who would make original assessments of railroads and public utilities, sit as a board of equalization and hear appeals of any aggrieved taxpayer.

LONDON, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Winston Churchill charged the laborite government with "confidence-killing" policies today in debate with Clement R. Attlee, his successor as prime minister, on the Conservative party's move to censure the new regime.

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 6.—(AP)—A report showing 660 greater Kansas City industries and businesses have expansion plans calling for a 23.9 per cent boost in employment by next fall was pointed to today as an indication this area is "on the way" toward "envisioned increased production and payrolls" in the first postwar year.

Presented at a luncheon given by the Greater Kansas City committee for economic development, the report revealed that the employment figure, if realized, would be 40.5 per cent greater than in 1940.

Collett Boosts Estimates of Living Costs

Closer to 33 Per Cent Rise Than the Accepted 29.5

By Harold W. Ward

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—(AP)—The administration provided a possible wedge today for reopening some deadlocked wage disputes by boosting its estimate of how much living costs have increased since 1941.

Stabilization Administrator John C. Collett announced that the cost of living rise is closer to 33 per cent than the previously accepted 29.5 or 30 per cent. And he added that employers who raised pay scales accordingly could use that factor as a basis for seeking price increases.

Collett was elaborating on President Truman's announced wage-price policy. In that declaration of October 30, Mr. Truman listed cost of living raises among the few classes of pay boosts which could be considered by OPA in passing on price increases.

Neither Mr. Truman then, nor Collett last night, offered any guarantee that OPA would hike ceilings as a result.

Hike Recommended

A special presidential cost-of-living committee headed by William H. Davis reported last spring that 3 or 4 per cent should be added to the then estimated 29.5 per cent advance to take account of poorer quality merchandise and the disappearance of low-cost goods from the market.

The Collett order states that when OPA is unable to estimate cost increases resulting from wage increases "within a reasonable margin of error" it should wait to obtain experience based on "a representative period subsequent to the wage or salary increase."

Some OPA economists thought this might apply to the automobile industry particularly, since the current period is not representative of postwar production, and recent price adjustments were based on 1941 output.

Mitchell Recalled Dept. Agreement That Air Attack Was Number One Danger

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall declared today the army and navy had enough strength at Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, 1941, to break up the Japanese attack and "greatly lessen" the damage.

Had the forces been alert and the attack smashed, Marshall told the joint congressional Pearl Harbor investigating committee, the entire Japanese campaign of aggression would have been ruined.

Although the planes and guns at Pearl Harbor were never in profusion, Marshall testified, "they had at least the means to break up that attack so it could only have done limited harm."

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—(AP)—General George C. Marshall testified today that early in 1941 he decided "to rob practically all combat pursuit squadrons in the United States of most of their P-36 planes for the defense of Hawaii."

Marshall, then chief of staff of the army, also told a congressional committee investigating the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor four years ago that he knew of no commitment by President Roosevelt for the United States to go to war before it was attacked.

The matter of sending additional pursuit planes to Hawaii was brought up by committee counsel William D. Mitchell.

Mitchell recalled a war-navy department agreement in early 1941 that attack from the air was Pearl Harbor's No. 1 danger.

As a result of that, Marshall said, he sought "to see what radical measures might be taken to meet to a degree" the needs of the Pacific outpost.

"I made the decision," he said, "to rob practically all combat pursuit squadrons in the United States of most of their P-36 planes."

The general explained that there were certain engine defects in the then new P-40 (Warhawk) fighter planes.

Planes Rounded up
Thirty P-36s were rounded up, he recalled, leaving most fighter squadrons in the United States with three P-36s each. Marshall said the 30, with the pursuit planes already in Hawaii, brought the total there to 50.

Merry-Go-Round

by Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Shortly before he left Washington, Australia's astute foreign minister, Dr. Herbert Ewart, held a press conference at the state department to announce that the ten members of the Far Eastern advisory committee had reached complete agreement on the control of Japan — although Russia was still absenting.

As he was about to open the conference, Ewart looked around and asked for Laurence Todd, correspondent of the Russian Tass news agency. Just at that moment Todd entered the room.

"Mr. Todd, you will be interested to note," Ewart said, "that we had ten nations sitting here on the Far Eastern advisory committee and we all got along well, although the Soviet Union was not represented. It takes 11 men to play football. Do you think your people will join the team?" Todd laughed but made no reply.

Note — Despite Russia's absence all ten members of the committee agreed on a considerably tougher directive for Japan's control than that originally worked out by the state department and General MacArthur.

"Red" Dean Acheson Under Secretary of State Dean Acheson made a speech on friendship with Russia at a recent meeting in New York's Madison Square Garden. The Dean of Canterbury, sometimes described as the "Red Dean," also talked on the same program. Next day one newspaper carried the headline: "Red Dean calls for friend-

He tore out the page and sent it to Dean Acheson, onetime attorney for the big power companies, with a note saying: "Thank goodness they haven't gotten around to calling me 'Red Henry' yet."

Management Battles Itself Few people know it, but the labor-management conference came within a hair's breadth of making some progress before it broke up. The big fight took place at a secret management caucus which lasted until 2 a. m.

Eric Johnston of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, David Sarnoff of the radio corporation of America, and Herman A. Steinkraus, president of Bridgeport Brass, pleaded with their management colleagues to soften a bitterly anti-labor resolution on collective bargaining. The resolution not only required performance bonds from labor for violation of contracts, but also went so far as to demand anti-trust laws for unions, abrogation of the Wagner act, and repeal of the Norris-La Guardia act which prevents injunctions against strikes.

On the other side of the fence were John A. Stephens of U. S. Steel and Almon E. Roth, representing west coast shipping interests. At 1 a. m., Roth and Stephens finally yielded slightly. They agreed to soften the language of their resolution by not mentioning the Wagner act or the Norris-La Guardia act by name; but their substitute draft meant almost the same thing. Sarnoff and Johnston, who knew that labor leaders could never afford to agree to the Stephens-Roth proposals without slitting their own throats, begged their management colleagues to reconsider. Finally at 2 a. m., the meeting recessed.

Early the next morning Johnston called Judge Stacy, the conference chairman and asked that the day's meetings be postponed from 10 a. m. to 3:30 p. m. in the hope that management could reach an acceptable compromise in the interim.

However, the conservative management clique still refused to yield further. When the meetings were resumed, the CIO and AFL offered to accept the entire management proposal if the four anti-labor points were eliminated. This sent management back into caucus again. However, Stephens Roth and John Clement, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, still refused to go along; so under the rule of unanimity, the conference blew up.

Labor Also Split At the end of the three weeks' maneuvering, labor also was split wide open. John Lewis made the most hypocritical speech of all at the conference's close when he talked about the urgent need for labor unity.

Other labor delegates laughed behind their hands, because for three weeks Lewis had done his best to split the CIO and AFL. Once again, however, he was outsmarted by his old enemy Phil Murray.

Here is what happened: Just before the conference ended, Murray rose and offered a new resolution calling for "substantial wage increases now" for labor. Citing case after case of high corporate profits, he urged that purchasing power of the consumer be maintained and pointed out that wage increases were in the national interest. President Truman incidentally had made a similar plea a month before.

Murray's unexpected bid put the AFL in a tight spot. Earlier the AFL had made a secret agreement with Lewis and Ira Mosher of the National Association of Manufacturers to maintain a united front and not ask for increased wages at the conference. Therefore, when Murray finished talking, the AFL's Dan Tobin demanded an AFL caucus. Lewis joined the caucus, and management went into a caucus of its own. One AFL leader especially on the hot spot was David Dubinsky, who, at that very moment, was negotiating for wage increases for his garment workers.

So at the AFL secret caucus, Bill Green moved an immediate amendment to Murray's resolution, calling for "general wage increases" instead of "substantial wage increases." By doing this, Green reneged on the AFL's secret agreement with the National Manufacturers to keep the wage issue out of the conference. He had a tough time trying to explain why at the start of the conference he was opposed to wage increases while at the end of the conference he was for them. The reason, of course, was that he couldn't afford to let Murray get ahead of him.

However, both the Green and the Murray resolutions went out the window when management refused to go along with either.

Black Hawks Busy In Brief Action

By NEA Service The 86th Infantry (Black Hawk) Division holds the unique record of having been the last division in and the first division out of the Western Front.

The Black Hawks fought for only 42 days in Europe. But during that brief spell in action they earned considerable respect for their speed, courage and coolness under fire. The 86th served under four armies—Fifteenth, First Seventh and Third—was the first American division to cross the Danube, and fought with distinction in the mop-up of the Ruhr pocket.

The Black Hawk doughboys crossed the Rhine at Bonn, pushing on deep into Germany, taking numerous towns and cities en route. At Echstatt the Black Hawks liberated a large number of Allied prisoners of war.

By April 26, the 86th had moved to a position just outside of Ingolstadt, close to the Danube. Defying heavy concentrations of artillery fire, the Black Hawk doughs drove through the city and onto the banks of the Danube, spearheading the advance of the Third Army on the river.

In the evening, under cover of a heavy protective barrage, the Black Hawks shoved off for the far side of the Danube. They quickly secured a bridgehead, fought off an enemy counterattack, and pushed steadily inland.

Fighting against desperately resisting German and Hungarian Storm Troopers, the 86th swept everything before them in their steady advance into Austria. At the end of the war they were in Perwang. They had covered ground so quickly that they had left their own kitchens far behind.

Looking Backward Forty Years Ago Prof. J. D. Wilson, formerly principal of the Sedalia high school, but now of the Kirksville Normal school, and wife, are in Sedalia as the guests of friends. "The Source of Inspiration," at tonight's meeting of the Nehemgar club and will remain over Friday and Saturday to assist Supt. G. L. Coleman in conducting the Pettis county teachers' institute.

The meeting of local A.O.U.W. members with Organizer Everett Blackburn of St. Louis at the office of Prof. L. E. Friemel last night, resulted in a decision to give a free musical and literary entertainment at Pioneer hall the night of December 14, to which a number of invitations will be sent out.

G. L. Loeffler brought to Sedalia an American eagle that was shot and killed on his farm near Bahner, 20 miles southeast of Sedalia recently by his two sons Charlie and George Loeffler. The bird is a "whooper" measuring seven feet and two inches from the tips of its wings.

David Hartshorn, the contractor, departed this morning for LaMonte where he is constructing a brick warehouse.

Report On the War

Biennial Report of the Chief of Staff of the U. S. Army 1943 to 1945, to the Secretary of War
Published by NEA Service, Inc. in co-operation with the War Department

This is the 19th of 42 installments of material selected from General Marshall's report on the winning of World War II.

THE SIEGFRIED OFFENSIVE

DURING the third week in September the Combined Chiefs of Staff were again in conference at Quebec with President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill. The whole of Northern France and Luxembourg were in Allied hands. But General Eisenhower reported that enemy resistance was stiffening as he approached the German frontier. He reported that it was his intention to prepare with all speed to destroy the German armies in the west and occupy the German homeland. He considered that his best opportunity to defeat the defenders in the west was to strike at the Ruhr and Saar, confident the enemy would be compelled to concentrate most of his available resources in defense of these essential areas. He preferred the northern approach into Germany through the Cologne plain for reasons which the map makes obvious.

Early in October I made a hurried 9-day inspection trip to the Western Front, visiting American corps and divisions from the Vosges Mountains north to Holland. At that time many of the infantrymen had been in almost constant combat since D-day in June.

After many computations and exchanges of radio messages with the War Department to determine the effect on our hard-pressed and delicately balanced shipping situation, it was decided to rush the movement from United States of the infantry regiments of 9 of the 11 remaining divisions ahead of the scheduled departures of the entire divisions. This was for the purpose of relieving those regiments which had been in combat for an excessively long period and to give immediate increased strength and striking power to our armies facing a most difficult winter campaign.

With the promise of a large increase of supplies through the port of Antwerp in late November, and with more than 3,000,000 troops on the Continent, General Eisenhower in mid-November launched a charging offensive to penetrate the Siegfried Line and place himself in position to cross the Rhine.

Enemy Fights Stubbornly

Not in years had European weather been so unfavorable for grand-scale military operations. Resistance was bitter. The Siegfried defenses were formidable as anticipated, and our divisions paid heavily for each inch of ground they tore from the fanatical Nazi defenders. Nevertheless, by 4 December the Second British Army had cleared the west bank of the Meuse and the Ninth Army had reached the Roer. East of Aachen troops of the First Army fought splendidly through bloody Hurtgen Forest, taking heavy casualties and inflicting heavy losses on the stubborn enemy. The dams of the Roer were seriously inhibiting General Eisenhower's progress. He wrote:

"He (the enemy) is assisted in that area, however, by the flooded condition of the Roer River and the capability he has of producing a sudden rush of water by blowing the dams near Schmidt. Bradley has about come to the conclusion that we must take that area by a very difficult attack from the west and southwest."

"There can be no question of the value of our present operations. The German is throwing into the line some divisions with only six weeks training, a fact which contributes materially to his most recent appreciation of the Combined Chiefs of Staff, our problem is to continue our attacks as long as the results achieved are so much in our favor, while at the same time preparing for a full-out heavy offensive when the weather conditions become favorable, assuming the enemy holds out. Unless some trouble develops from within Germany, a possibility of which there is now no real evidence, he should be able to maintain a strong defensive front for some time, assisted by weather, floods, and muddy ground."

General Eisenhower was determined to give Germany no chance to recoup from the blows already delivered. Despite shortages in troops and supplies, his attitude was offensive, and, consequently, he was compelled to hold some sectors of the front with comparatively weak forces in order to gather strength at his points of attack. To the 75 miles between Monschau and Trier he could assign only four divisions of the First Army, or sacrifice his effort to bring about a decision elsewhere. It was here that the German armies of the west, commanded by Field Marshal von Rundstedt and acting on the direct orders of Hitler, made their last desperate effort to stave off the disaster.

The Wehrmacht's Last Blow On 16 December von Rundstedt attacked with a force of 24 divisions. He had been able, because of heavy fog which continued for days, to assemble his forces in secrecy in the heavily forested foreground. When the fog came, eight panzer divisions broke through our VIII Corps line on a 40-mile front. Diversionary attacks in other sectors and considerable air and artillery support assisted the main offensive in Luxembourg.

General Eisenhower reacted promptly and decisively and subsequent results have proved the eminent soundness of his plan. All available reserves in the Central Army Group were used to strengthen the northern and southern flanks of the penetration and the XXX British Corps was deployed to hold the line of the Meuse and the vital Liege area. With communications seriously disrupted, Field Marshal Montgomery was charged with the operation of forces north of the penetration, involving temporary operations to control over most of the U. S. First and Ninth Armies while General Bradley coordinated the effort from the south. The 82d and 101st Airborne Divisions were brought up from theater reserve to retard the momentum of the enemy thrust, with the 101st, reinforced by armor and artillery, holding the important road center at Bastogne. The shoulders of the penetration at Monschau and Echternach were stubbornly held by infantry divisions moved in from the north and from the south, outstanding among which were the 1st, 2d, 4th, and 99th Divisions.

The Ardennes battle deserves a prominent place in the history of the U. S. Army. The splendid stand of the 7th Armored Division at St. Vith, the tenacity of the 101st Airborne and elements of the 10th Armored Division at Bastogne, and the numerous examples of superb fighting qualities shown by the troops of other units were in the finest American tradition.

Hal Boyle Makes Tour of Chihnsien, Railroad Center

GHINHSIEN, Manchuria—(AP)—which Yu said had been looted and set afire by Chinese Communists, the second largest cotton-spinning mill in Manchuria and a Japanese airport. Nationalist troops had repaired minor damage to the airport, and 11 Chinese-piloted American C-46 cargo planes landed with more than 20 tons of small arms ammunition—enough, Tu felt, to speed somewhat his march on Mukden, the largest city in Manchuria.

His bodyguards looked like walking quills in their cotton-padded yellow-green uniforms and wrap-around leggings. Many had only light gloves and thin canvas slippers to protect their hands and feet from the bitter December wind. Some troops had frozen to death and the cold has caused almost as many casualties as have clashes with the lightly armed Communists.

These Nationalist troops were brought up in American ships from South China. They feel as out of place in Manchuria as a Florida Cracker on guard duty in Montana during a blizzard. They are well drilled and disciplined, however, and they know how to handle their American tommy guns and old Springfield rifles.

Rode in Buick

Chief guest on the inspection trip was Vice Adm. Daniel E. Barbey, commander of the U. S. Seventh fleet. Tu personally drove him about the city in his new Buick with the remainder of the party following in three of the Chinese army's four jeeps in Manchuria.

We left Nationalist headquarters in the modern Japanese railway administration building after a heavy breakfast of eggs, tea and half raw veal steaks.

Tu, a close friend of Chiang Kai-Shek, is youthful looking, shrewd and friendly, and American observers have a high opinion of his military ability. His secretary-general and advisor on political and economic problems is Professor Yu Hsih-chung, 45-year-old Harvard trained history teacher.

Tulsa and Georgia in The Oil Bowl

SMU Turns Down Bid to Support The Oil Bowl

HOUSTON, Tex., Dec. 6.—(P)—The Oil Bowl, dormant for a year comes up with a star attraction this season in the Universities of Tulsa and Georgia, both bowl-wise schools.

Georgia, winner of eight games out of ten, and Tulsa, which lost only two in a nine-game schedule, yesterday accepted invitations to play in the second Oil Bowl game contingent upon approval of their respective conferences. This was considered only a formality.

The Oil Bowl, inaugurated in 1944, had its first game in the high school stadium and also planned to play there last Jan. 1 but abandoned its game when Randolph Field was refused permission by the war department to compete. This year the Oil Bowl will have a college field, Rice Institute of the Southwest conference having granted use of its stadium which seats 30,000.

Southern Methodist university Tuesday declined an invitation to play in the Oil Bowl with the statement that "SMU as a member of the Southwest conference feels under obligation to support the game in the Cotton Bowl and does not feel it proper to support a game competing with the conference's championship team."

The conference champion, this year, the University of Texas, is committed to the Dallas post-season game. Southern Methodist was second in the conference this season.

Texas will be the only state with 3 bowl games on Jan. 1—Cotton Bowl at Dallas, Sun Bowl at El Paso and Oil Bowl at Houston.

Sports Roundup

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.
COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 6.—(P)—Baseball Commissioner Happy Chandler probably is wondering these days where he ever got that nickname. . . . Happy's grin is undimmed but it must have hurt him a lot to be frozen out of the new baseball promotion setup.

—The one thing he has emphasized since he became head man was that he wanted to do anything "for the good of baseball."

... A lot of that speechmaking has been charged off to "politics" has been done with the idea that it would stir up some interest in the game to have the commissioner appear at a father-and-son banquet or a high school victory celebration. . . . "I never thought I would be anyone of importance," Happy said the other day, "but I can remember what a thrill it would have been to me when I was a kid to have a major league player or any prominent baseball man appear in my home town. If Muddy Ruel and I can do the same thing, I think is a very small contribution for the good of the game."

Business is Serious at the Ball Meeting

Walker Cooper is The Prize piece Of Baseball Ivory

By Harold Harrison
COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 6.—(P)—Even though he's still in service, Catcher Walker Cooper today had become the prized piece of ivory as the 44th annual convention on the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues got down to serious business and serious trading.

The major league clubs had no official status at the convention, of course, but they all were represented and the dope was that the New York Giants, the Boston Braves and the Pittsburgh Pirates were interested in getting Cooper's contract from the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Pirates were reported ready to offer Catcher Al Lopez and the Braves were ready to toss in backstopper Phil Masi. The Giants were said to be ready to give only cash.

Meanwhile, it was reported from sources the boys said were reliable that Johnny Humphries was going from the Chicago White Sox to the Philadelphia Phillies. Humphries, who formerly pitched for Cleveland, won only six while losing 14 for the Sox last year, but he reported late after being a holdout.

One of the busiest guys around the hotel lobby today was baseball's commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler but that didn't detract from the fact that the minors seemed to be gunning for the grinning Kentuckian. They approved a proposal that a baseball promotion program henceforth be "separate and apart from any other office in organized baseball."

And to that Chandler replied: "I think they are trying to do something that won't work. They're trying to establish something that's outside organized baseball. Everything in baseball should come under the commissioner's office."

The minors voted that the governing board for the foundation to promote baseball on the sand lots and in the high schools should include the commissioner, the presidents of the two major leagues and the president of the minors but Chandler insisted "they want to pick their own man."

AA is Looking For Bargains

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 6.—(P)—The biggest stock of ivory up for sale, swap or barter at the minor league trading mart is that collection of baseball talent which won the world's baseball championship for Detroit in 1945.

From what you hear around this lobby-sitting sweepstakes, only seven members of the Detroit Tigers have much chance of hanging their hats under that world title flag come post time for the '46 campaign.

These possible holdovers are Pitchers Hal Newhouse, Mr. 20 games himself; Virgil (Fire) Trucks and his smokeball and Reliever George Caster, along with Hank Greenberg, who is just about a death-and-taxes cinch to be doing business at his old first base stand; Eddie Mayo, the "Cinderella man" second sacker; and Stringbean Paul Richards, who was all set to take things easy as a coach and now finds himself slated for catching duties again, and Skeeter Webb, who'll handle the utility infield chores.

Otherwise, you just "takes your pick" and put your cash or your trading bait on the line.

It is a most unusual situation to find practically the entire lineup of a world's championship club on the block and ordinarily it would be something like a guy trying to peddle a million dollar bank account for what he can get on the open market. But such was 1945 baseball in general and the weird workmen of the series in particular.

Convention Chatter
The first real scrap is due to hit the convention floor today when the matter of moving the Double A leagues up to a new class is considered. Another scrap which has been in a state of truce for two years, also may burst out in the territorial contest between the Ohio State and Middle Atlantic leagues. One version is that the folks who led the unsuccessful assault on Judge Bramham's minor league rule in 1943 still are peeved at Elmer Daily, Middle Atlantic boss, because of his activities in supporting the judge. . . . Zeke Bonura, who introduced baseball into Africa and a few other odd spots while he was in the army, may wind up as player-manager at Minneapolis. . . . The Browns may effect the outright purchase of the municipally-owned Elmira, N. Y. club. . . . Biggest player deal reported so far was when a delegate managed to sign Vic Marino, former Ohio State and Great Lakes football guard, to play for the Chicago Bears.

Last Laugh

Pour over all... 1/2 cup melted and cooled shortening 1/2 tsp. cinnamon
Sprinkle with... 1/2 tsp. cinnamon

General Mills
"Betty Crocker and Kitchen-tested" are registered marks of General Mills Inc., Minneapolis, Minn.

Better Cakes in less than 1/2 the mixing time!
Try the marvelous New Betty Crocker Method with Gold Medal Flour. You don't cream shortening... you don't beat eggs! Use only one bowl! See recipe folder in sack for details. Folders also contain recipes for pies, rolls, cookies, tested by Betty Crocker Staff.
THESE HINTS HELP
1. Use a fork to mix the dry ingredients together with the unbeaten egg. Mix just until the mixture is crumbly. Do not try to mash the ingredients together into a doughy mass.
2. Do not peel apples—oryou'll lose valuable vitamins and minerals found in or next to the skin. Red peelings also add eye appeal. Wash apples, of course.

Why drop everything while you "cook" your laundry starch? You don't HAVE TO, Mother. Just use Faultless Starch and your starch cooking job is ended forever. No more standing over a hot stove, watching and stirring that boiling starch until it turns clear. You simply make perfect hot starch with Faultless Starch like this:

1. Cream Faultless Starch with a little cool water.
2. Add boiling water while stirring. You're through! No cooking! Perfect, clear, hot starch ready to use in barely a minute!

What Price Victory?

Purchase An Extra
Victory Bond

They Started!

Days To Purchase

$49,000

In Victory E Bonds!

Help put Pettis County Over the Top
by Purchasing Your Share!

Let's Keep Our Record Clean!

Your Share of the Cost is an Extra Bond in America's Great Victory Loan

THIS VETERAN will never get back what he gave up for his country. You get back more than you lend your country—$4 for every $3—when you buy VICTORY "E" Bonds.

So it isn't asking much when Uncle Sam asks your help in caring for our more than 300,000 wounded. Today their medical care and rehabilitation are among America's gravest problems. And every single step that speeds a wounded man to health is costly.

Look at these examples if you want to know why the most important Bonds you've ever bought are the Bonds you buy in America's Great Victory Loan: Cost of a hospital ship, $4,500,000; medical supplies for one ship alone, $48,600; a hospital plane, $110,000; supplies for a thousand bed hospital, $177,500.

Don't forget, either, that War Bonds are the World's safest investment—handy as ready cash for pleasures or emergencies. Above all remember 300,000 wounded need your help today.

Dow Took Action to Offer Amendment

Activity of Harvey D. Dow, Pettis county's representative in the state legislature, was referred to by a St. Louis Globe-Democrat staff writer, in a story with reference to the bill cutting ten percent off the annual state income tax bills of Missouri, perfected and prepared for final passage by the house Tuesday.

The article states in part: "An attempt by Representative Harvey D. Dow of Sedalia to defeat the bill by killing it with an amendment failed when Speaker Pro Tem Murray Thompson, one of the bill's sponsors, ruled the move out of order, although he told Dow the proposed amendment could be introduced as a separate bill."

Agree On Huge Loan To Britain

London Papers Announce It Arranged For $4,400,000,000

LONDON, Thursday, Dec. 6—(P)—London morning newspapers said today the United States and Great Britain had concluded negotiations for a loan of $4,400,000,000, to England.

The Laborite Daily Herald, in reporting that an agreement had been reached in Washington on the loan, said repayment of the loan will be over a 50-year period starting from 1946, but no interest will be payable for the first five years.

During the remaining period, the Herald said, the rate of interest will be two per cent, or about $88,000,000 for the first year.

The Daily Sketch, the Daily Mail and the News Chronicle also published special dispatches from Washington and New York stating that the loan agreement had been reached and that formal announcement would be made today.

Termed Magna Carta
The Sketch said the loan "will ease Britain's winter" and termed the money a "Magna Carta for world trade."

The Daily Mail said the go has been given to world trade by the "great deal."

The Mail said the long and detailed document, listing the terms of the loan, included a provision that Britain work towards a reduction of the sterling debt and dissolution of the dollar pool. Another division, the Mail said, was that Britain join with the United States in a long-range plan to reduce tariffs and eliminate quotas and restrictions on world trade.

Another provision of the agreement, the Daily Herald said, calls for British support of the Bretton Woods International Monetary plan.

The Herald, spokesman for the dominant Labor party, expressed the opinion "that the new arrangement will not prevent an expansion of trade within the commonwealth, but will enable the Dominions to make immediate essential purchases in the United States."

(The Berne radio in a broadcast reported by NBC said that $650,000,000 of the total of the loan is earmarked for settlement of England's lend-lease debts.)

The loan must be approved by congress.

School Is Closed As Result Of "Flu"
Due to several of the pupils at High Point school being kept at home due to "flu" school sessions there have been suspended for the remainder of the week. The principal, Miss Dorothy Helen White, has been off duty the past few days.

There are fifty pupils enrolled in the school and the other instructor there is Mrs. C. F. Scotten.

Divorce Is Petitioned
A divorce petition was filed in circuit court Wednesday afternoon by Cornelius Koning against Francis Koning. General indignities were alleged.

The couple was married November 2, 1945 and separated on November 15, 1945.

Lamm and Barnett are the attorneys for the plaintiff.

Buying Public Is Now "Economy" Conscious
The average American household stretches pocketbooks for added savings by buying big sizes in most everything and it works the same way when you buy the 100 tablet size of St. Joseph Aspirin for 35c as you get nearly 3 tablets for 1c. For handy pocket use, remember world famous 12 tablet package for 10c. None finer, faster or more economical. The choice of millions. Always demand pure St. Joseph Aspirin.

Succeeds Falzone In the Senate

Hartwell G. Crain, Clayton Republican, has been elected state senator for the 25th district. He succeeds Joseph A. Falzone, who resigned November 1. Crain defeated Leo A. Politte, Democrat, in a special election Dec. 4.

Comments Work For Vets

V. F. W. Commander Insists On Fight For Welfare

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 6—(P)—"The loyalty of a great many Americans is fickle," Joseph M. Stack, commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, said Wednesday as he urged "organized veteranism" to fight for the welfare of the returning servicemen.

Stack, in a speech delivered before the national and regional officials of the V. F. W., expressed a fear that the American people may forget two things: The reason why millions of Americans were asked to risk their lives in the war, and that the end of the war does not have the "magic power to heal the wounds of the nation's disabled or solve their economic problems."

The national commander cited examples of many local communities which have no veterans organizations to aid returning military personnel.

He commended the V. F. W. for the work done in veterans' welfare and told members that the organization was growing at the rate of 300 new chapters each month.

In commenting on labor-management relations, Stack said the returning veteran is caught between the pinch of labor and management in their industrial troubles and predicted, "as long as these powers remain in conflict, each refusing to make the slightest compromise, production will be paralyzed."

No Basis For Hostility
A statement from Labor Secretary L. B. Schwellenbach was presented at today's session of the five-day meeting.

The labor secretary said there is no basis for reported hostility between organized veterans and organized wage earners.

Declaring that "there is every reason for cooperative effort" between the two groups, Schwellenbach listed three factors for such cooperation:

First, dual membership in the two groups; secondly, "the philosophy of unionism represents in economic life the human rights for which the veteran fought"; and finally, the whole-hearted cooperation of American labor in the war effort.

Resolutions were adopted recommending creation of a federal Veterans Relocation Authority, and backing a congressional bill that would grant disability pensions to World War I veterans on the same basis as those of past wars.

Scheduled to speak this evening are Maj. Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe, commander of the airborne center at Camp Mackall, N. C.; Maj. Gen. Floyd Parks, chief of staff, army ground forces; Maj. Gen. Fred Anderson, chief of personnel, AAF, and Maj. Gen. Ray E. Porter.

Lt. Gen. James E. Hull, chief of operations, general staff, and General McAuliffe will speak at the annual dinner tonight.

Thursday Club At Lewis Home

The Thursday club met at the home of Mrs. George Lewis on Thursday afternoon November 29. Mrs. George Croll, vice president, had charge of the meeting. All repeated the Lord's Prayer and Mrs. Lewis read the 113th Psalm. The new officers were elected: president, Mrs. Guy Mahin; vice president, Mrs. Ed Ficken; secretary, Mrs. Fred Werkel; treasurer, Mrs. L. M. Littlefield. Each answered roll call with what I have to be thankful for.

A shower was given for Mrs. Robert McCurdy. Lieut. McCurdy recently returned from the Pacific theater of operations and they have gone to housekeeping now.

The next meeting will be December 20 with Mrs. Ed Ficken. At that time the club members will exchange Christmas gifts.

Divorce Is Petitioned

Kenneth F. Place sued for divorce from Marie Place in a petition filed Wednesday in the Pettis county circuit court.

The couple was married on August 4, 1934, and, according to the petition, a child born to the union is with the defendant. The plaintiff states he is willing for her to retain the care and custody of the child and also that he will maintain and support it.

Fred F. Wesner is attorney for the plaintiff.
